School of Agriculture Stake Choir to Stage May Open this Year Opera This Month

The Irrigation short course was opened here last Tuesday by Hon.
Geo. Hoadley. It will finish today.

As a grand finale to the course, a big Board of Trade Dance in the Opera House this evening. Lunch will be served by the ladies of the U. F. W. A. Lack of space precludes a detailed report of the executive course. The assembly room was packed to capacity at nearly every session. A banquet attended by more than a hundred men and women was tendered Mr.
Hoadley at noon on the first day at the Hotel Raymond. Mayor O.
H. Snow brought up the question of opening the local School of Agriculture. In reply Mr. Hoadley promised that as soon as the fir-ances of the Province warranted it the school would be re-opened, and pledged his own support to that end. H. S. Allen considered that an additional amount of $10,000 should be sufficient to re-open the institution, and felt certain that the attendance would be much larger than it was in previous terms because of the fact that farmers were able financially to send their children to the school. Mr.

Fairfield of the Lethbridge board of trade spoke briefly and mentioned that the whole south country is behind the movement to have the school again in operation.

During the last week in this month the Stake Choir, under the leadership of C. F. Tollestrup, will produce Floto's well known opera "Martha". There are many, no doubt, who have seen this production and will recognise many of its catchy musical airs. Many, too, have heard it over the radio, as it has been on the air several times this season from various broadcasting stations.

The members of the Stake choir have been working diligently on this opera, and are now holding practices twice weekly. A select chorus of 40 voices and an orchestra of 12 pieces will be used in the production.

Mrs. Wilford Bradley will be heard in the title role, while the lead tenor's part will be taken by Ira McBride as Lionel. Other principal characters will be Mrs.
Blanche Scoville as Nancy, Lee Brewerton as Sir Tristan, Michieford, and Joe McLean as Plunkett.
Mr. Tollestrup informs the Rec-order that no expense will be spared in the way of costumes, scenic and lighting effects to produce this high class opera in the manner it deserves.

The financial statement of Sugar City M. D. No. 87 appears in this issue.

News Notes

Too many people, while their shoulder is at the wheel, keep their hands on their pocketbooks.

Tomorrow night and Monday will see the Browning squad opposed by the Union Jacks at the Opera House. These teams are old-time foes. Two years ago they each took a game at Browning and in a previous game, when they met at Cardston, the Jacks nosed out by but 1 point. These games will be humdingers. No fan will miss them.

Aziel Stevenson left this week from Salt Lake City for the mission field.

The Ladies Aid of the United Church will hold a Valentine Tea and Pantry Sale in the Church on Saturday Feb. 13 at 3 p. m. $18

The Brandon eagles will appear here on the Feb. 24. As it is hardly likely that the Jacks will be back from their tour it will be up to the Intermediates to play the game. The Manitoba crew have a good reputation. Last year they lost the Prov. championship by one point and have lost only one game this year.

A number of sample copies of this issue are being sent out.

Big rabbits little rabbits! They came rolling in until the pile in front of the Peter Pan Cafe numbered 260 as a result of the M Men last Saturday. Over 70 men from both wards took part in the hunt, and the day was spent in a wild chase over hill and plain after the elusive hare. Shot guns and 22's were used and some even resorted to rocks to make the score count up. Gibbons of the second ward holds high single score with 26 rabbits to his credit. Good shooting coupled with the fact that they outnumbered their opponents accounts for the winning, by a score of 196 to 64.

Snowed under by the biggest majority ever seen here the Taber basketeers took the small end of a 88-14 score in their game on Tues-score tells the whole story more eloquently than words. Faibanks, Ratepayer's Meeting

The annual ratepayer's meeting was held last Friday night in the second ward church.

Secretary S. F. Kimball read the town financial report for 1925.
It showed a surplus of $1328.

Mr. Bennett, chairman of the works and property committee gave a report showing this department is in good condition. He also stated that approximate figures show that the $10,000 town sidewalk debentures will not construct quite as much work as was anticipated. The walks will be completed as soon as weather permits. A resolution was passed urging the council to make further efforts to keep our town roads in better conditions.

The report of Mr. Kirkham, on health was passed, but a resolution was introduced suggesting that the appropriate sum of money to provide some hospital facilities.

This resolution was defeated.
Mr. Court's report on license and police was accepted with a few comments the number of dogs running loose about town.

Mr. Salmon stated, in connection with his report on waterworks, that outlets had been installed on the electric water pumps and another shortage of water would not likely occur.

All the reports were accepted by the meeting.

The school district's financial report was read by the secretary, Mrs. J. F. Powelson. This report shows some remarkable changes for the better over last year.

BARRE, SON OF KAZAN

James Oliver Curwood

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

Copyright, 1917, by Doubleday, Page & Co.
"BARRE, SON OF KAZAN" a Vitaphone Picture. With Wolf, the War Dog.
Is an Adaptation of This Story

SYNOPSIS

It was in the winter that a half-breed found in the snow footprints of Barre, the wolf-dog. He reported to McTaggart, the factor, that he had seen prints larger than those of a fox, and the factor's suspicions were aroused. Barre had been his enemy. He had tried to kill the dog and the dog had inflicted wounds on him. Moreover, McTaggart had shot Pierrot, the trapper, who was Barre's master, and caused the animal to be separated from Nepeese, the trapper's daughter.

CHAPTER XXV.—Continued.

The next day saw the beginning of the struggle that was to follow between the wits of man and beast. To Barre the overhauling of Bush McTaggart's trap-line was not war; it was existence. It was to furnish him food, as Pierrot's line had furnished him food for many weeks. But he sensed the fact that in this instance he was law-breaker and had an enemy to outwit. Had it been good hunting weather he might have gone on, for the unseen hand that was guiding his wanderings was drawing him slowly but surely back to the old heaven-pond and the Gray Loon. At it was, with the snow deep and soft under him—so deep that in places he plunged into it over his ears—McTaggart's trap-line was like a trail of mamma made for his special use. He followed in the factor's snowshoe tracks, and in the third trap killed a rabbit. When he had finished with it nothing but the hair and crimson patches of blood lay upon the snow. Starved for many days, he was ravenous with a wolfish hunger, and before the day was over he robbed the bait from a full dozen of McTaggart's traps. Three times he struck poison-balls—venison or caribou fat in the heart of which was a dose of strychnine, and each time his keen nostrils detected the danger. Pierrot had more than once noted the amazing fact that Barre could sense the presence of poison even when it was most skillfully injected into the frozen carcass of a deer. Foxes and wolves ate of flesh from which his super-sensitive power of detecting the presence of deadly danger turned him away. So he passed Bush McTaggart's poisoned tidbits, sniffling them on the way, and leaving the story of his suspicion in the manner of his footprints in the snow. Where McTaggart had halted at midday to cook his dinner Barre made these same cautious circles with his feet.

The second day, being less hungry and more keenly alive to the hated scent of his enemy, Barre ate less but was more destructive. McTaggart

Police Brilliantly Dressed

A new corps of brilliantly dressed traffic police are giving back to the streets of Constantinople the color lost with the passing of the fez and turban. The crimson and brass helmets of these officers of the law and their batons of red and white stripes, which resemble sticks of peppermint candy, give promise that the new era is not to be entirely drab. The director of police, Ekrem Bey, has also instituted the first electric device for traffic control.

two and two together, and out of two and two he made—Barre. There was little doubt in his mind. The thought had flashed on him first when Lerue had mentioned the black wolf. He was convinced after his examination of the tracks. They were the tracks of a dog, and the dog was black. Then he came to the first trap that had been robbed of its bait.

Under his breath he cursed. The bait was gone, and this trap was unsprung. The sharpened stick that had transfixed the bait was pulled out clean.

All that day Bush McTaggart followed a trail where Barre had left traces of his presence. Trap after trap he found robbed. On the lake he came upon the tangled wolf. From the first disturbing excitement of his discovery of Barre's presence his humor changed slowly to one of rage, and his rage increased as the day dragged out. He was not unacquainted with four-footed robbers of the trap-line, but usually a wolf or a fox or a dog who had grown adept in thievery troubled only a few traps. But in this case Barre was travelling straight from trap to trap, and his footprints in the snow showed that he stopped at each.

At dusk he reached the shack Pierre Kustach had built midway of his line, and took inventory of his fur. It was not more than a third of a catch; the lynx was half ruined; a mink was torn completely in two. The second day he found still greater ruin, still more barren traps. He was like a madman. When he arrived at the second cabin, late in the afternoon, Barre's tracks were not an hour old in the snow. Three times during the night he heard the dog howling.

The third day McTaggart did not return to Lac Bain, but began a cautious hunt for Barre. An inch or two of fresh snow had fallen, and as if to take even greater measure of vengeance from his man-enemy, Barre had left footprints freely within a radius of a hundred yards of the cabin. It was half an hour before McTaggart could pick out the straight trail, and he followed this for two hours into a thick hanksian swamp. Barre kept with the wind. Now and then he caught the scent of his pursuer; a dozen times he waited until the other was so close he could hear the snap of brush, or the metallic click of twigs against his rifle barrel. And then, with a sudden inspiration that brought the curses of Barre to McTaggart's lips, he swung his rifle and fired straight back for the trap-line. When the factor reached the line, along toward noon, Barre had already begun his work. He had killed and eaten a rabbit; he had robbed three traps in the distance of a mile, and he was headed again straight over the trap-line for Post Lac Bain.

A Considerable Difference

Newspapers Have Hard Time Convincing People Advertising Is Not News

There is quite a deal of difference between news and advertising, says the Ottawa Citizen, but a newspaper has a hard time often in making some readers realize the difference. If a person has something to sell and wants the public to know about it, that is advertising. It is purely a business transaction with the one object of making money. An ice cream summer notice is not news—it is advertising. Because the money goes for a worthy cause does not make any the less an advertisement. Where there is no charge involved or money to be received from the event, the paper is frequently willing to tell about it as a matter of news. A newspaper must have advertising to live. That is one of its ways of getting money to pay the expenses of operation and if it ran all advertisements free there would be no cash returns. But at that the average newspaper gives away thousands of dollars' worth of space each year in helping private civic affairs and is glad of the opportunity to be of service to the community.

War's Widows

Two hundred and thirty thousand widows will establish claims under the English Government's new pension law. It will cost the government $15,000,000 a year. A nation rarely finishes paying the debts of one war before another is begun. When men are farseeing enough to forestall the enormous costs and consequences of wars they will be much slower in planning them. Grove Patterson in Duluth Herald.

Chinese Traffic Declines

San Francisco, Aug. 14.—Agent of C.P.R. ocean traffic, Vancouver, states that Oriental traffic back to China had fallen off to a considerable degree during the past year. He attributed the fact to unrest in China. Formerly, he stated, between six and seven thousand Orientals left Vancouver from Canada and the Western United States enroute for China.

Disposal Of Ex-Kaiser's Property

Matter Will Be Decided by the German People.

Germany is to be asked to decide by referendum whether some millions of dollars' worth of property in castles, estates, art and money shall be handed over by the republic to ex-Kaiser William II.

The agitation against the proposed grant has become so intense and the spirit of many workers so embittered, that the Socialist party executive decided to undertake the necessary steps for getting a referendum on this question.

This executive acted after numerous protests of laborers and white collar folk had arisen throughout the land. The burden of these complaints was that the German republic, now plunged in its worst unemployment period, ought not to give to the former kaiser the millions of marks which would render him one of Europe's richest men.

There has been a heated controversy as to whether or not the property to be returned really belonged to the kaiser or to Wilhelm personally. A careful canvas of the property confiscated during the 1918 "revolution" led finally to the conclusion that Wilhelm was entitled to regard several million dollars' worth of it as his own.

The matter then came up for ratification by the Prussian diet, but at that moment the clamor throughout the land caused legislators to proceed cautiously. In view of the move for a referendum, it is likely that no attempt will be made to rush the grant through.

Meantime reports from Doorn indicate that the joy of Doorn over the prospects of fortune have been short-lived and that Wilhelm is applying the knife ruthlessly to his 1925 budget.

A pleasant medicine for children is Mother Graves' Worm Expeller, and it is excellent for driving worms from the system.

Prediction Came True

Citizen of Bombay Foretold His Own Death On Nov. 18

An extraordinary story of predicting one's own death comes from Sholapur in Bombay Presidency.

Moti Swamy, literally the Pearl of Ascelies, aged 89, had predicted. It is stated, six months ago, that he would pass away on November 18 last. Two days before that he renounced his followers that the time of his death had arrived, and at their request a photograph was taken. On the day of his death he walked round the city and camp of Sholapur and collected money for his burial, deposited it with a municipal collector, went thence and, having seated himself in the yoga posture, passed away.

Kissing as a theory is far less satisfactory than a practical example.

Kipling Likes Quiet Home

Lives Five Miles From Railroad and Has No Telephone

During Rudyard Kipling's illness the village of Burwash in England had more visitors than ever before. Mr. Kipling chose Burwash as a place of residence because it is one of the few Sussex retreats which still remains unfashionable. Rottingdean, his former home, became so overrun with tourists, new houses and motor coaches that for the sake of peace and quietness he was obliged to move. Baitenham's, which is the name of his 300-year-old house, has no telephone and it stands amid lovely country at least five miles from a railroad station. On the quiet porch is the date 1634, and its fine old black beams are a conspicuous feature. Cross-channel almoners, who pass over this neighborhood on their way from London to the coast, say that the old Elizabethan house is a distinctive landmark by reason of its chimney stacks.

Backache Is Now A Thing Of The Past

So Says Mrs. A. Lawes After Taking Dodd's Kidney Pills

Ontario Lady Suffered with Headache for Two Years, but was Promptly Relieved by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Frankford, Ont.—(Special).—"I cannot praise your Dodd's Kidney Pills enough for what they have done for me," states Mrs. Albert Lawes, a well-known and highly respected resident of this place. "About two years ago I had a bad pain in my back and could hardly do my housework. I thought it was my kidneys and tried many things for it without any success. I saw Dodd's Kidney Pills advertised in the papers and decided to give them a trial. Two boxes relieved me and I have had no more backaches. It is statements like the above that have made Dodd's Kidney Pills a household remedy throughout Canada. Dodd's Kidney Pills can be obtained from druggists everywhere, or The Dodd's Medicine Co., Ltd., Toronto 2, upon receipt of price, 50¢ per box.

There is nothing too great, nothing too small, for us to bring to the One of all compassion. I think it is the going to God with every want that he likes. Hence the oftener we go the more we please him, for our asking for the seemingly little things is but demonstrating our entire dependence on him; and surely this dependence, this trust, is what makes us the children of our Heavenly Father.

Discover Strange Race

Survival of a Lost Tribe in the Wilds of South Africa

A scientific expedition, led by three Denver scientists, has returned to Cape Town from the remote desert regions to the north with a strange tale of the survival of a lost tribe of "strandloppers," the primitive cave-dwellers who formerly inhabited the coastal belt of the Cape and were believed to have become extinct.

The leaders of the expedition were Dr. C. E. Gallo, Dr. Grant H. Johnson and Paul L. Hootlet.

The explorers have been filming bush life in the remote parts of the Kalkar Desert in the Bechuanaland Protectorate, and the Kaoko Veld, the northern coastal region of the former German Southwest Africa. These are the regions chiefly inhabited by the bushmen, among the most backward of the human races.

The scientists report that the "strandloppers," the name given the cave dwellers by the Boers when they first came to this region many decades ago, were discovered inhabiting an almost inaccessible stretch of coast which is isolated by a hundred-mile width of desert. The government of the South African Union is being urged to send a special expedition to investigate this territory and its inhabitants.

Woman Member of British Labor Party Satisfied With Conditions in Canada

"Conditions in Canada appear to me to be quite satisfactory, and I believe that a great many people now in the British Isles can be comfortably and happily settled in this Dominion," said Miss Julia Varley, of Birmingham, England, a member of the executive of the Labor party, during a conference at Montreal, with Mr. W. J. Black, director of colonization. Miss Varley had decided to see for herself what manner of people live in Canada and to study the conditions under which they work.

Accordingly, she set out from England on her own initiative, without the aid of any organization, intending on her return to England to relate her experiences through the medium of her pen and by lectures. The general tenor of her future articles and addresses is indicated by her remark that she was generally satisfied with conditions as she found them in this country, with the added suggestion that she would advise those who can make the break to do so and find new homes in Canada.

CHILDHOOD AILMENTS

Can be Quickly Banished With Baby's Own Tablets

The ailments of childhood are many but almost all of them are due to one cause and one cause only—a disordered condition of the stomach and bowels. To quickly banish any of the minor ailments of babyhood and childhood—the bowels must be made to work regular and the stomach must be sweetened. No other medicine for little ones has such success as has Baby's Own Tablets. They banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers; correct diarrhoea and colic and promote healthy sleep by regulating the functions of the stomach and bowels. Concerning them Mrs. L. M. Brown, Walton, N.S., writes: "I cannot speak too highly of Baby's Own Tablets as I have found them excellent for childhood ailments."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail for 25¢, a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

 body, come. Grand finale to the Irrigation Short Course.

A telephone call from Salt Lake City received by A. W. Kirkham last Monday notified him of the serious illness of his mother. He left Tuesday morning and will be gone about two weeks.

With a booking of 18 games ahead of them the Union Jacks will take rail for the Yankee domain next Tuesday on their fourth tour. Their opening game will be at Kallispell on February 10. The cities booked are Spokane, Golden Dale, Portland, Astoria, Newburg, Leavenworth, Weistachee, Butte, Havre and Browing. The five main huskies and manager Dave Powelson will make up the crew. No subs. will be carried.

The local high quint lost to the Temple city five last Friday in a hotly contested game that ended 23—20.

The management of the Rex Theatre has been very fortunate in securing the first run of "Mann-equin" the prize story written by Fannie Hurst which is running serially in the Liberty magazine.
 This picture is showing at the Rex the last three days next week.

The 12th Annual Sexagenarian Festival will be held in the Opera House next Thursday. A splendid program has been arranged, and invitations are being issued.

Mrs. John Powelson, retiring president of the Woman's Institute was presented with a handsome bag by her co-workers at a recent meeting of the Institute. The presentation speech was made by the new president, Mrs. A. W. Kirkham.
 This meeting was the opening social of the year. The time was spent with an animated program of games prepared by Mrs. S. B.
 Card and in partaking of a delicious luncheon. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Watson and by T. K. Roberts and a reading was given by Mrs.
 Kimmit. Institute meetings are held on the second Thursday of each month. All are invited to attend and become members.
